

KILLING MAY HAVE BEEN ACCIDENTAL

Sheriff Owens Brings Five Men From Round Mountain in Connection with Murder

Walter D. Cole, acting district attorney, who was called to Round Mountain several days ago to investigate the killing of Frank Ciscellini, returned last night in company of Sheriff J. J. Owens and five men, three of whom are thought to be implicated in the shooting, and two witnesses. Mr. Cole stated that the prisoner's jury was in session for two days listening to the evidence, and conflicting was the same that it was hard to arrive at a conclusion.

Sheriff Owens was at Berlin, a distance of over 135 miles from Round Mountain, when he heard of the shooting, and he immediately journeyed to the scene of the killing. It was through his work that the evidence was produced.

The coroner's verdict as rendered after the two days' deliberations is, in part, as follows: "That the deceased, Frank Ciscellini, met his death by a gunshot wound by a gun held in the hands of Fred Newton, J. L. Kelly or Frank Knowles. We are of the opinion that he shot which caused the death of deceased, Frank Ciscellini, was accidental in so far as the criminal intent is concerned, but we are of the opinion that the deplorable accident occurred while the said Fred Newton, J. L. Kelly and Frank Knowles were committing a misdemeanor, that is, the discharging of fire arms in a public resort."

From the evidence produced it seems that Ciscellini was in company with a number of others who were indulging in what is termed "smoking the town." That is, they were arousing and every little while could discharge their revolvers. They were at in the Midway, a house of fame conducted by Alice Wheeler, and after shooting twenty holes in the floor shot out the lights. From there they went to the house known as the Lucky 11 and after taking several shots at the floor were ordered out of the house by Marie Jewell, the proprietress. The party left and in the rear were Ciscellini and Ida Wheeler, an inmate of the Midway house, and who was engaged to marry Ciscellini. The rest of the party were somewhat in advance of Ciscellini when seven shots were heard from an automatic gun, closely followed by three from a larger calibered gun. Newton was standing on the porch of the house and at a distance of about twelve feet from Ciscellini, who was at the extreme end. Newton, in answer to the shots, drew his revolver and fired two shots ostensibly into the air. Immediately following the shots Ciscellini staggered into the light coming from the doorway, and with the exclamation, "I am killed," fell into the arms of Alice Wheeler. He was immediately carried into the house and when an examination was made life was extinct. Dr. E. K. Smith was called to make an examination of the body, which showed that a bullet had entered at the right shoulder and ranging downward came out under the left arm.

The two witnesses who were brought in are Elmer Bird and John Sausser. The three men under arrest are miners and all bear an excellent reputation. Kelly is foreman of the Daisy mine.

An automobile will arrive today containing Alice Wheeler, Ida Wheeler, Marie Jewell and Dr. E. K. Smith, who will be examined as witnesses before the grand jury.

Judge O'Brien will probably arrive from the north this morning and he will empanel the grand jury either tomorrow or Tuesday and the case will be immediately investigated.

HIGHGRADERS ARE STILL IN THE LOCKUP

There were no new developments in the case of William Turner, Pat Flannigan and Tom Conifrey, who were arrested Thursday night for high grading in the MacNamara mine. Flannigan and Conifrey are still confined in the county jail as they were unable to secure bonds for their release. The preliminary trial of Conifrey and Flannigan will come at 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

WILL SURVIVE OPERATION.

Frank Mannix, well known as the proprietor of the Bullfrog Miner, and a time candidate for secretary of state for Nevada, and who has been confined in Reno at the Nurse's hospital for the last two weeks is slowly recovering and will be able to sit up a few days. Mannix was the representative of the Goldfield Elks at a recent grand lodge in Dallas, Texas, and was taken seriously ill as a result of a severe cold received at that time, and was taken to Reno for medical attendance. His condition came so critical that Doctors Cunningham and McKensie performed a serious operation on his stomach, as his only home of recovery.

FIRST PAPERS.

Sam Divanovich, of Manhattan, was granted his first naturalization papers yesterday in the county clerk's office.

HIGH SCHOOL DANCE

AN ENJOYABLE AFFAIR
The dance given Friday night by students of the high school in the miners' exchange hall was a success. The affair was well attended and quite a large sum was realized, which will go to the literary societies and the athletic fund. Dancing was kept up until an early hour Saturday morning and the floor committee saw to it that every one present enjoyed themselves to the utmost.

BACKING THEIR BELIEF WITH THEIR COIN

E. J. Uren, of Nye county, arrived yesterday with a bunch of Nye county Republicans, including Grant Crumley, says the Goldfield Tribune of Saturday morning. They had oodles of money and took all reasonable Democratic bets, including the $400 to $200 that Elliott would be elected senator. Another bet taken was $250 even that Ingalls would be elected. The party then offered $2000 to $1000 that Taft would be the next president, but there were no takers.

LARGE PACKAGE FOR BUD MORRIS

An eight and a half pound girl arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Morris yesterday afternoon, and Bud is highly elated, although he wanted a boy so he could teach him to play center field on the Eagles-Elks ball team. Dr. Clark reports both mother and child doing nicely, and Bud—at the hour of going to press was doing fine.

HAPPY PARENTS.

Mrs. Frank Pyne, formerly Miss Edith Hurt of Tonopah, presented her husband, Frank Pyne, now a prosperous business man of Goldfield, with a daughter on October 22. Both mother and daughter are doing nicely.
